PREFACE.

THE popularity of the Pocket Atlas and Pocket Gazetteer of the World suggested the preparation of other small volumes, dealing specially with the principal divisions of the British Empire, and giving, in the form of a combined Atlas and Gazetteer, much more complete and detailed information than is usually found in any general atlas or gazetteer of the world. With this aim the Atlas and Gazetteer of the Dominion of Canada has been prepared as the first of a series of such small geographical compendiums. In the compilation of the work the aim has been to include every place likely to be inquired after, even down to the smallest hamlet; the information has necessarily been extremely condensed, for in this small compass we give the digest of all the principal topographical, statistical, and railway authorities published in the Dominion.

In addition, however, to the use of the best material, the work has had the advantage of being carefully revised in proof by Dr Harper of Quebec, whose thorough knowledge of the geography of the Dominion is a good guarantee for the general accuracy of the book. The maps and plans have been specially prepared, and although small will be found to be very accurate and complete. In the Gazetteer all the names contained in the Atlas are followed by index letters referring to the map and square where they are to be found.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Dominion of Canada is by far the largest of all the British possessions, and has an area nearly equal to that of Europe, or in other words, it comprises about one-sixteenth of the land surface of the globe. It occupies the whole northern part of North America, with the exception of the British colony of Newfoundland; the territory of Alaska, which belongs to the United States; and Greenland, which belongs to Denmark. The name Canada was first applied to the country by Jacques Cartier, and is supposed to be derived from an Indian word "Kannatha," meaning a village, or collection of huts. The Dominion of Canada is a confederation of the colonies of British North America, constituted in 1867 by the British North America Act of that year (30 Vict., chap. 3). The first to unite under the provisions of that statute were Upper and Lower Canada (now Ontario and Quebec), Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick; and to these have been added Manitoba and the N.W. Territories in 1870, British Columbia in 1871, and Prince Edward Island in 1873. Part of the N.W. Territories was subsequently divided into provisional districts as follows:— In 1876, Keewatin; in 1882, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, and Athabasca.

GEOGRAPHY AND PHYSICAL FEATURES.—Canada is bounded on the N. by the Arctic Ocean; on the S., by the United States, and the great lakes Superior, Huron, Erie, and Ontario; on the E., by Newfoundland and the Atlantic Ocean; and on the W., by the Pacific Ocean and Alaska.

Area 3,470,257 sq. miles, in addition to which there is a water area of lakes and rivers calculated at 140,000 sq. miles. The whole country is characterised by vast lakes, rivers, and plains, but, with the exception of British Columbia, it is nowhere of a strictly mountainous character. The Laurentide Range, chiefly in the basin of the R. St Lawrence, runs SW. to NE., and has a total length of about 3,500 miles, and an average elevation of 1,600 feet. This range forms the watershed between the rivers of the St Lawrence basin and those flowing to Hudson Bay. The Nôtre Dame Mountains, an extension of the Appalachian chain, extend from the Green Mountains of Vermont (U.S.) to the extremity of Gaspé Peninsula, where they attain their greatest elevation (4,000 feet) in the Shickshock Mountains. E. of the Nôtre Dame Mountains is the small Atlantic Plain, sloping gradually towards the Atlantic Ocean, and varied by hill ranges of no great height, round the Bay of Fundy, and on the N. shore of Nova Scotia. The Cobequid Mountains run through Nova Scotia from the Bay of Fundy to the Strait of Canso, but nowhere exceed 1,100 feet in height. On the S. side of the Georgian Bay are the Blue Mountains, rising to 1,900 feet above the level of Lake Huron. On the Pacific side of the Dominion are the Rocky Mountains, the Cascade Range, and the Coast Range. The Rocky Mountains rise from a plateau, and run N. to SE., parallel to the Pacific Ocean. The three ranges form a series of parallel ridges, with longitudinal valleys between, through which several large rivers flow; the highest peaks are Mount Hooker (16,760), Mount Brown (16,000), and Mount Murchison (15,700), the average height of the chain being 7,000 to 8,000 feet. The average height of the Cascade Range in British Columbia is 5,000 to 6,000 feet. The Coast Range runs through the islands lying off the coast, and rises to a height of 7,500 feet in Mount Victoria, Vancouver Island.

Across the continent stretches the great central plain, from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic seaboard, and N. to the Arctic Ocean. This vast plain slopes from the Rocky Mountains towards the NE., and may be divided into the Arctic Plain, extending from the height of land between the Athabasca and Saskatchewan Rivers to the Arctic Ocean; the Great Southern Plain, extending from the Rocky Mountains to Hudson Bay, and to the watershed of the Missouri on the S.; and the Hudson Bay Plain, formed by the height of land extending round Hudson Bay, at a distance of 400 to 600 miles from the coast.

The great lakes, which occur nearly in line from NW. to S., are the Great Bear, Great Slave, Athabasca, and Wollaston, in the Mackenzie basin; Deer, Winnipeg, Winnipegosis, Manitoba, and Lake of the Woods, in the Nelson basin; and Superior, Erie, Huron, and Ontario, in the St Lawrence basin.

The chief river in the E. is the St Lawrence, of which the remotest source is the St Louis, a small stream falling into the upper end of Lake Superior. Passing through the great chain of lakes, the St Lawrence emerges from the E. end of Lake Ontario, whence it flows 700 miles to the sea, its total course being about 2,000 miles. The principal tributaries of the St Lawrence are the Ottawa, St Maurice, and Saguenay Rivers from the N.; and the Richelieu, St Francis, and Chaudière Rivers from the S. The chief rivers falling into Hudson Bay are the Albany and Churchill Rivers; and the Nelson, with its tributaries the Saskatchewan and Red Rivers. The great river of the N. is the Mackenzie, which emanates from Great Bear Lake, and flows N. to the Arctic Ocean. Its most distant sources are the Athabasca and Peace Rivers, which fall into Lake Athabasca; and the Slave River, from it to the Great Slave Lake, and thence to the Great Bear Lake. The Mackenzie has a total course of about 2,400 miles. Other rivers falling into the Arctic Ocean are the Coppermine and Great Fish (or Back) Rivers. The chief rivers of the Pacific slope are the Fraser, Thompson, Skeena, and Yukon.

The coast line of the Dominion is much indented by bays and inlets, the chief of which is Hudson Bay, a great inland sea, with an area of about 350,000 sq. miles. Others are, the Gulf of St Lawrence, with an area of 80,000 sq. miles; the Bay of Fundy, remarkable for its high and rushing tides; the Gulf of Boothia, Cumberland Bay, Frobisher Bay, Ungava Bay, Hamilton Inlet, Chesterfield Inlet, Wager Bay, Coronation Gulf, &c., all on the E. and N. coasts; on the W. coast are the Gulf of Georgia, Bute Inlet, and Burrard Inlet.

Besides the islands of Cape Breton and Prince Edward, numerous others lie off the coast. In the E. are Madgalen and Anticosti in the Gulf of St Lawrence; in the N., Cumberland and Cockburn Islands, Banks Land, Victoria Land, Southampton and Parry Islands; and in the W., Vancouver, Queen Charlotte, and Prince of Wales Islands, and many smaller ones.

CLIMATE.—The climate of so large an area as that occupied by the Dominion of Canada must necessarily be one of great variety, and the temperature ranges from that of the Arctic to that of the most southern of the temperate zones. In general the summers are warmer and the winters colder than in the corresponding latitudes of Europe; but the climate is everywhere extremely healthy, as is proved by the returns of the military stations; and, owing to the dry bracing atmosphere, the cold in winter is not so acutely felt as in countries where there is greater humidity in the atmosphere. As to the seasons, spring consists of the two months April and May; summer, of June, July, August, and September; autumn, of October and part of November; while winter generally lasts from the middle of November to the end of March. POPULATION.—The total population of the Dominion in 1881 was 4,324,810; and of this number 478,235 were born in the British Isles and other British possessions, exclusive of Canada, 101,047 were born in Prince Edward Island, 420,088 in Nova Scotia, 288,265 in New Brunswick, 1,327,809 in Quebec, 1,467,988 in Ontario, 15,590 in Manitoba, 32,275 in British Columbia, 58,430 in the N.W. Territory, 77,753 in the United States, and 53,330 in other foreign countries. The estimated population in the summer of 1888 was 5,000,000.

English is the language spoken generally throughout the Dominion, but in some parts of Quebec only French is understood. In the Dominion of Quebec, and Manitoba Parliaments, Members may address the House in either language, and in the province of Quebec the speeches are generally French.

INDIANS.—The recent report of the Department returns the number of Indians in Canada as 121,490. One-fourth are in the E. provinces, one-half in Manitoba and N.W. Territory, and one-fourth in British Columbia. They are principally engaged in agricultural and primitive industrial pursuits, although many of them still follow fishing and hunting as a means of livelihood. They are under the supervision of the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, an office held by the Minister of the Interior. In 1887 the total expenditure for the Indian service was 1,201,300 dollars.

IMMIGRATION.—The total number of immigrant arrivals during 1887 was 175,579, of whom 91,053 passed to the United States, while the remaining 84,526 expressed their intentions of remaining in Canada. The total number of immigrant settlers for a period of eight years (1880 to 1887) was 669,249. According to Mulhall's "Fifty Years of Progress," the number of emigrants from the United Kingdom, during the fifty years of Her Majesty's reign, has been 9,101,000, and of these 1,311,000 have gone to Canada.

RELIGION.—There is no state church in Canada, and all denominations are thus equally regarded by the Government, while the utmost religious toleration everywhere prevails. The clergy are supported by the voluntary contributions of the congregations, pew rents, and other such funds. Tithes and church rates do not exist, except in the province of Quebec, where the R.C. Church possesses some qualified right to impose such rates on persons professing the R.C. faith. For relative strength of the various denominations, see Religious Statistics, in the statistical tables.

EDUCATION.—There is a well-organised system of free schools, and education is very generally diffused. The system is somewhat different in its details in the various provinces, but generally each township is divided into sections sufficiently large to support a school, and trustees are elected by the ratepayers to manage the affairs, the expenses being met by levying local school rates and by grants from the local governments. Separate schools are recognised by Government in those districts where the inhabitants are divided in their religious opinions, except in the Maritime Provinces. Numerous higher schools and colleges exist, where at a small cost the highest education can be obtained. Teachers are trained at Normal Schools at the public expense. The principal Universities, with the dates of their foundation, are as follows :—Dalhousie (N.S.), 1820; M'Gill (Que.), 1821; New Brunswick, 1828; Toronto (Ont.), 1828; Queen's, Kingston (Ont.), 1841; Laval (Que.), 1852; Manitoba, 1877; Royal Military College, Kingston (Ont.), 1874. The leading scientific societies are,—the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec; the Royal Society of Canada; the Natural History Society of Montreal; the Canadian Institute, Toronto; the Nova Scotia Institute; the Natural History Society, New SOCIAL CONDITIONS.—While the traditions which give the general features to English society are carefully preserved, the distinctions of caste do not exist to the same extent as in the mother-country. As nearly every farmer and agriculturist is the owner of his farm, he is free to do as he wills, and this sense of freedom and independence leavens the whole social system. In many matters Canada is ahead of the mother-country. She possesses quinquennial parliaments, elected by a free and widely diffused suffrage; a practically free and unsectarian education, &c. Members of Parliament are paid for their services, local option prevails as regards the liquor traffic, and marriage with a deceased wife's sister is legalised; while in the most of the provinces an excellent system of municipal government has been introduced, not only for the towns and large villages, but for the country districts as well.

GEOLOGY.—The Crystalline rocks are the prevailing formation of the central and northern parts, from the western extremity of Lake Superior to the mouth of the St Lawrence; while the Silurian strata line both banks of that river from Kingston to Quebec, and the southern side from Quebec to Point Gaspé, together with the eastern half of the peninsula, which extends from the Georgian Bay to Lakes Erie and Ontario. The right bank of the Ottawa, in the lower half of its course, is of the same formation. The western half of this peninsula contains Devonian beds. Crystalline and Igneous rocks prevail in the greater part of Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, and the west of New Brunswick; while Silurian and Cambrian are the prevailing strata in the NW. of that province. The Coal Measures occupy the area between the Bay of Chaleurs and the eastern extremity of Cape Breton Island, and penetrate far into the interior of New Brunswick. Jurassic Red Sandstone predominates in Prince Edward Island, and is found in Nova Scotia along the Bay of Fundy.

MINERALS.—The Government geological survey has shown that the mineral wealth of the Dominion is great, but the development of the mining industry may be said to be still in its infancy. Among minerals of economic value that have been worked are coal, lignite, rock salt, petroleum or rock-oil, bituminous shale, felspar, gold, copper, iron, phosphates, salt, antimony, gypsum, lead, nickel, and cobalt, zinc, silver, and platinum, limestone, marble, slates, lithographic stones, agates, jaspers, crystals, amethysts, asbestos, steatite, plumbago, manganese, &c., &c. Large coal mines are worked in Nova Scotia and British Columbia, while valuable seams are known to exist in the NW. Territories east of the Rocky Mountains. Excellent peat deposits are found in all the provinces. Petroleum wells are profitably worked in Ontario, and extensive sources of this mineral have been discovered in the NW. Territories. Salt is found at Goderich and other places in Ontario, and also in the NW. Territories. Gold-mining is carried on extensively in Nova Scotia and British Columbia, while gold mines have also been worked in Beauce co., Quebec, and in Hastings co., Ontario. Rich veins of silver are found in the vicinity of Thunder Bay, and copper-ore is largely mined in Ontario and Quebec. The province of Quebec is especially rich in phosphate of lime. The total value of mineral products in 1886 was 10,529,361 dollars, and the estimated value of mineral production in 1887 was 12,959,073 dollars.

PUBLIC LANDS.—The public lands are held by the Dominion Government in the province of Manitoba and the NW. Territories, but in all the other provinces they are held by the provincial governments. In British Columbia a tract has been ceded to the Dominion Government for the

Every encouragement is held out to immigration, free grants of land being obtainable in most of the provinces, while improved farms, with buildings, implements, and machinery, can be purchased on reasonable terms in many parts. In Manitoba and the NW. Territories, the Government offer a free grant of 160 acres to every settler, on condition of a three years' residence, a specified cultivation, and the payment of an entry fee of 10 dollars.

AGRICULTURE, VEGETABLE PRODUCTIONS, &c.—The greater portion of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec, Ontario, and the country lying between Lake Superior and the Pacific Ocean, and Vancouver Island, is well adapted for agricultural purposes. The vast prairie regions of Manitoba and the NW. Territories, including the great basin of the Mackenzie River, are eminently suited to the growth of wheat and other farinaceous cereals. The principal agricultural products of the Dominion are wheat, barley, oats, peas, maize, buckwheat, Indian corn, potatoes, turnips, mangold-wurzel, hemp, flax, tobacco, and maple sugar. Fruit-growing in the eastern provinces is also an important industry. The SW. part of Ontario is especially favourable for the growth of many fruits, shrubs, and flowers, which will not grow to perfection in other parts of the Dominion. Here are large vineyards producing excellent wine-giving grapes, large peach orchards, and innumerable apple orchards, yielding large crops of highly prized apples, immense quantities of which are annually exported. Strawberries are raised as a field crop; tomatoes and melons ripen in the open air; while plums, pears, gooseberries, raspberries, and currants, grow everywhere in abundance.

Canada is also a great stock-raising country, and there are large annual exports of horses, cattle, and sheep. Dairy-farming has also made great progress, and there are now many cheese factories, and creameries for the manufacture of butter, in operation. Market gardening is a profitable industry in the vicinity of large towns, and bee-keeping is carried on profitably in many places.

FOREST PRODUCTS.—A large area of the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick, and British Columbia, are covered by luxuriant forest trees, which not only add to the beauty of the landscape, but also exercise a beneficial climatic influence by affording shelter and attracting rainfall. They also constitute an important source of wealth, the total area of the Dominion timber lands being estimated at 280,000 sq. miles, as against 132,000 sq. miles remaining in the possession of the United States Government. Mr A. T. Drummond divides Canada into four great forest areas, viz.: (1) The Douglas fir zone, occupying central and southern British Columbia; (2) the zone of poplars, occupying the whole country from the most northern limit of the growth of trees southward, east of the Rocky Mountains, to the South Saskatchewan, Qu'Appelle, and Winnipeg Rivers, Lake Nipigon, and Anticosti, in the Gulf of St Lawrence; (3) the zone of white and red pine, extending from the Lake of the Woods and Lake Nipigon to Anticosti, thence to the Georgian Bay, Lower Ottawa River, and Nova Scotia; (4) the zone of beech and maple, occupying those parts of Ontario and Quebec lying south of the zone of the pines. The varieties of wood grown include the white and red pine, maple, elm, hickory, ironwood, spruce, cedar, hemlock, walnut, oak, butternut, basswood, poplar, chesnut, rowan, black and white birch, willow, and many more. The Canadian sawmills are extensive and well appointed, and the exports of timber to all parts of the world are very large. The industry gives employment to a large number of men, besides affording freights to railways and to shipping.

FISHERIES.—The coasts, lakes, and rivers abound in many kinds of fish, and the fisheries form one of the most valuable industries of the Dominion. It is estimated that no fewer than 60,000 men and 30,000 vessels and boats are annually employed in the fisheries. The length of net used in 1886 was 3,288,061 fathoms, which is equal to a total length of 3,737 miles. The value of the products of the fisheries of the Dominion, sold and exported in 1886, was 18,679,288 dollars, and in 1887, 18,233,373 dollars. The most extensive cod fisheries in the world lie off the coasts of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, and in the Gulf of St Lawrence. Other varieties of fish found in the seas, lakes, and rivers, are salmon (especially abundant in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, and British Columbia), herrings, lobsters, mackerel, haddocks, trout, sardines, smelts, pollocks, whitefish, hake, alewives, oysters, pike, pickerel, halibut, sturgeon, eels, bass, shad, perch, &c. The Government has done much to encourage the fisheries, by offering an annual bounty of 150,000 dollars to be divided, according to catch, among the vessels and boats engaged in this industry. It has also provided no fewer than twelve breeding establishments, placed in different parts of the Dominion, and millions of spawn are yearly hatched and placed in the rivers and lakes.

ANIMALS.—Fur-bearing animals are among the most important, and in this class the beaver holds a conspicuous place, although its numbers are gradually decreasing. Among others are the fox, wolf, weasel, lynx, muskrat, marmot, squirrel, hare, rabbit, skunk, racoon, wolverine, martin, mink, seal, ermine, porcupine, wild cat, prairie dog, Rocky Mountain sheep, otter, antelope, bear, &c. Between Nova Scotia and the Arctic Ocean, two varieties of reindeer are hunted for their flesh. The buffalo and the moose, or elk, are found from the Bay of Fundy to the farthest northern limits, and woolly goats are met with in the Rocky Mountains.

Birds are largely represented, and include two varieties of eagle, four species of hawk, and four species of owl. Wild ducks abound in every province, and in the northern parts of the country wild geese are found. Other feathered game are wild turkeys, woodcocks, snipe, pigeons, pheasants, grouse, ptarmigan, and quail. Among smaller birds are kites, bitterns, herons, crows, kingfishers, partridges, ravens, swallows, sparrows, jays, woodpeckers, blackbirds, wrens, blue birds, larks, robins, humming-birds, &c.

Snakes are sometimes to be seen, and among those of a venomous kind are the rattlesnake, adder, and copperhead. Lizards and frogs abound; wild bees are numerous; and mosquitoes are troublesome during the summer months.

MANUFACTURES.—The manufactures are confined chiefly to the eastern provinces, and among the leading articles made are cloth, linen, furniture, leather, felt goods, hair-cloth, oilcloths, cotton and woollen goods, boots and shoes, flax, jute, hardware, steam engines and locomotives, sewing machines, agricultural implements, mill machinery, nails, gunpowder, paper, glass, chemicals, cutlery, clocks, saddlery, tobacco, musical instruments, woodenware, &c. Shipbuilding, iron-bridge building, sugar refining, oil refining, &c., are also carried on. The industrial progress of Canada has been more marked during the last decade than at any previous period in the history of the Dominion. While in 1881 eighty-five per cent. of the railway supplies needed by the Canadian Pacific Railway were bought in the United States, in 1884 the Company did not require to go outside the Dominion for more than seven or eight per cent. of such supplies; four-fifths of the rolling stock are now manufactured in Canada. A list of the leading industries of Canada, showing the amount of capital invested, the number of hands employed, and the total annual value of products, will be found among the statistical tables.

1887 the total paid-up capital of the chartered banks was 60,815,356 dollars, and the total liabilities amounted to 149,413,632 dollars, of which 30,438,152 dollars were notes in circulation; 113,933,009 dollars, deposits; and 5,042,469 dollars, securities and other liabilities. The total value of the assets was 229,241,464 dollars. The total amount deposited in savings banks was 37,173,813 dollars. Besides the bank circulation, the Government had notes circulating to the value of 15,251,485 dollars.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.—The value of the imports for the year ended 30th June 1887, was 112,892,236 dollars, of which 105,639,428 dollars was entered for consumption. The duty amounted to 22,469,705 dollars, being equal to 4.63 dollars per capita of the population. The exports for 1887 were valued at 89,515,811 dollars,—made up of Canadian produce, 77,964,020 dollars; other produce, 8,549,333 dollars; and coin and bullion, and estimated short returns, 3,002,458 dollars. For analysis of the exports see Statistical Tables.

SHIPPING.—The total number of vessels owned in the Dominion in 1887 was 7,178, of which 1,240 were steamers. The gross tonnage of the steamers was 178,189, and the total net tonnage of shipping was 1,130,247. Canada occupies the fourth place in the mercantile countries of the world, coming next to Germany, which stands third on the list.

RAILWAYS.—Canada has made great progress in the construction of railways. The first line was opened in 1836, between Laprairie, on the St Lawrence, and St John's, and was 16 miles long. At the end of June 1885, there were 10,773 miles of railway completed, while 812 miles were under construction. On June 30, 1887, the total length in operation was 11,691 miles. The three principal systems are the Canadian Pacific (4,274 miles), Grand Trunk (2,600 miles), and the Intercolonial (1,190 miles). The amount of capital invested in railways in June 1887, was 683,773,191 dollars; the number of passengers carried, 10,698,638; the tons of freight carried, 16,356,335; the earnings, 38,842,010 dollars; the working expenses, 27,624,684 dollars; showing a net profit of 11,217,326 dollars. By the opening of the Canadian Pacific Railway, through trains now run daily from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and this makes the distance between Liverpool and Japan or China 1,000 miles shorter than via New York and San Francisco. A hip railway, nineteen miles long, is constructed across the isthmus of Chignecto,—the connecting link between Nova Scotia and the mainland.

CANALS.—In the eastern provinces an admirable system of canals has been cut to improve the navigation of the rivers. The most important of the six canal systems under Government control, is the St Lawrence system, which comprises ten canals, with a total length of 71½ miles, and affords uninterrupted navigation from the Straits of Belle Isle to the head of Lake Superior, a distance of 2,384 miles. The Rideau canals complete a navigable route from Montreal to Ottawa and Kingston, a length of 246½ miles. The other canal systems are the St Lawrence and New York canals, connecting by the river Richelieu and the Chambly Canal, with Lake Champlain; the Trent river navigation, between Lake Huron and Bay of Quinté; and St Peter's Canal, connecting St Peter's Bay, on the S. coast of Cape Breton Island, with Bras d'Or Lake.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE.—Expeditions which were despatched in 1884-5-6, by the Canadian Government, to ascertain the length of time during which the Hudson Strait was navigable, found that, in ordinary seasons, it was open from the first week in July to the first week in October, for specially built ships. The distance between Britain and Manitoba and the NW. Territories would be much shortened by this route.

extends to every village and hamlet in the Dominion, and is under the control of the Postmaster-General, who is a Minister of the Crown. In 1885 the number of post offices was 7,084, or in the proportion of one to every 610 persons; the miles of post route were 50,461; and the number of letters and post-cards carried was 85,260,000.

The telegraph system is mostly in the hands of private companies, and in 1886 the length of wires in operation was 59,941 miles, the miles of line 28,498, and the number of telegrams forwarded was 4,052,684.

The telephone system is principally controlled by a private company, and is in operation in all the cities and towns, and in many of the villages. Upwards of 300 cities, towns, and villages are connected for telephone service.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.—The consolidated revenue for the year ending June 30, 1887, was 35,754,993 dollars, of which 28,687,843 dollars were raised from customs and excise duties, or 24s. 3d. per head, as compared with 40s. 6d. in the United Kingdom, 27s. 8d. in the Cape of Good Hope, and 53s. 9d. in Australia (1885). The expenditure during the same period was 35,651,161 dollars. The expenditure in the two previous years exceeded the receipts by 8,074,631 dollars, mainly owing to unforeseen expenses in connection with the North-west rebellion in 1885. There was a surplus of revenue in the four previous years amounting to 18,267,843 dollars. The gross amount of the public debt on June 30, 1887, was 273,187,626 dollars; deducting the assets, the net debt was reduced to 227,313,911 dollars, or about 46 dollars per head; 171,675,735 dollars are payable in England, the remainder represents liabilities payable in Canada. Since confederation, the net debt has increased by 151,585,270 dollars, but in that period the Government has expended nearly 170,000,000 dollars upon public improvements.

CONSTITUTION AND GOVERNMENT.—The Government of Canada is federal, that is, there is a central General Government, while each of the provinces has a separate legislature, and manages its own local affairs. The "British North America Act" of 1867, which forms the basis of the constitution of the country, provides that the Dominion shall be "similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom." At the head stands the Governor-General, appointed by the Crown. The Dominion Legislature consists of the Governor-General, as representing the Sovereign; a Senate, consisting of members appointed for life by the Crown on the nomination of the Ministry; and a House of Commons, elected by the people every five years. No Act can become law without the concurrence of the three estates. The Ministry is composed of members of both houses, who are responsible to the Commons for all expenditure, and for their tenure of office. A senator must be 30 years of age, reside in the province for which he is appointed, and have a property qualification of at least 4,000 dollars. The number of senators must not exceed 78, until the admission of Newfoundland to the confederation, when it may be increased to 82. The House of Commons consists of 215 members.

Each of the provinces is under a Lieutenant-Governor, appointed by the Federal Government, and possesses its own Parliament. The province of Ontario has only one Chamber and a responsible Ministry. The provinces of Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, have each a Legislative Council and a Legislative Assembly. Manitoba and British Columbia have each a Legislative Assembly; and the North-west Territory is administered by a Lieutenant-Governor and a Council.

Throughout the Dominion an excellent system of municipal government prevails, each of the counties and townships having its local council for levying the taxation for roads, schools, and other purposes.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.—Justice is administered as in England, by judges, police magistrates, and justices of the peace. The highest court is the Supreme Court of Canada, composed of a chief justice and five puisne judges. It is the supreme court of appeal throughout the Dominion, in both civil and criminal cases. The only other Dominion court is the Exchequer Court of Canada, presided over by the same judges; all the other courts are provincial. These include the Court of Chancery, Court of Queen's Bench, Court of Error and Appeal, the Superior Courts, County Courts, General Sessions and Division Courts. Stipendiary magistrates sit daily in the chief cities and towns for the hearing of ordinary police cases. The civil and criminal procedure is generally analogous to that in England, and the system of jury trial everywhere prevails.

MILITIA AND DEFENCE.—Canada is divided into twelve military districts, of which four are in Ontario, three in Quebec, and one each in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, and British Columbia. There is a small regular force of infantry, cavalry, and artillery, and an active and a reserve militia. The active militia are enlisted, and serve for three years in time of peace, and the reserve militia includes all British subjects between the ages of 18 and 60.

HISTORY.—Canada is said to have been discovered by Sebastian Cabot in 1497. Jacques Cartier visited it in 1534, and took possession of it the following year in the name of France. The first settlement by Europeans was made at Port Royal (now Annapolis), Acadia (Nova Scotia), in 1605. Champlain founded a permanent settlement on the present site of Quebec in 1608. Between 1614 and 1713, Acadia was several times taken by the English, and given back again to France; but in the latter year it became, along with Newfoundland, a British possession. In 1759, Quebec was taken by Wolfe; and by the Treaty of Paris in 1763, the whole of Canada became a possession of Great Britain. In 1784 New Brunswick was made a distinct province from Nova Scotia, and in 1791 Canada proper was divided into Upper and Lower Canada, to be again united in 1840, and finally separated and erected into the present provinces of Ontario and Quebec in 1867, on July 1, in which year the British North America Act came into force. The colony of Newfoundland has not yet joined the confederation, but negotiations are now (1888) going on, with a view to accomplishing this object. See also the articles on the different provinces and the Statistical Tables.

- British Columbia, prov. of Dom. of Canada, of which it forms the western face, is bounded E. by the Rocky Mts., W. by the Pacific Ocean, S. by Washington Ter. (U.S.), and N. by the 60th parallel of N. lat. Area (including Vancouver Isl.), 381,305 sq. m. P. (1881) 49,459; (1886, estimated) 103,142. Cap., Victoria, on Vancouver Isl. The province has a rugged and indented coast line of about 600 miles, along which numerous islands are scattered. The chief of these, besides Vancouver, are Queen Charlotte Isls., Pitt Isl., and Prince Royal Isl. On the mainland the Rocky Mts. run the entire length from N. to S. The chief rivers are the Columbia, the Fraser (with its tributary the Thompson), the Skeena, and the Peace. The principal harbours of the mainland are Burrard Inlet, Bute Inlet, Howe Sound, Millbank Sound, and River Nass. The soil is generally fertile; much of it is arable, and the plains afford excellent bunch grass pasture. The largest compact agricultural district is the valley of the lower Fraser River. There are immense forests of trees, which offer inexhaustible supplies of excellent timber to meet an ever-increasing demand. The varieties include the pine, oak, cedar, maple, hemlock, &c. Chief among the resources of the province is the wealth of its minerals, among which are to be found gold, coal, silver, iron, copper, galena, mercury, platinum, antimony, plumbago, mica, &c. Among the fish to be found off the coasts and in the rivers are whales, seals, sturgeon, salmon, cod, haddocks, herrings, anchovies, &c. The climate varies considerably according to the height from sea level, but it is generally temperate and equable. British Columbia returns 5 representatives to Parliament at Ottawa, and has a local

- Cape Breton Island, forms the E. part of Nova Scotia, and is separated from the mainland by the Gut of Canso. Along with Newfoundland it forms the entrance to the Gulf of St Lawrence. Its greatest length, N. to S., is about 100 m., and its extreme width 85 m. Area 3,120 sq. m. P. 84,500. The island is very broken and irregular in shape, contains numerous mountains and lakes, and is indented by many creeks and bays. The Bras d'Or, an inlet on the E., is connected by a ship canal, half a mile long, with St Peter's Bay on the W., and the island is thus cut into two parts. The two divisions thus created are very dissimilar, the N. portion being high, bold, and steep; and the S. one low, and more diversified with inlets and slight elevations. Coal mining is carried on in the mountainous districts, the valleys afford excellent pasturage, and the coast abounds in fish. Ship timber of excellent quality is grown in the forests, and shipbuilding is an important industry.

Huron Lake, one of the five great lakes of the St Lawrence basin, N. America, is bounded on the SSW. by Michigan (U.S.), and on the NE., E., and SSE. by the province of Ontario. It lies E. of Lake Michigan, and SE. of Lake Superior, and receives the waters of both these lakes by the Straits of Mackinaw and Sault Ste. Marie. A long peninsula in the NE., terminating in Chabot's Head, and the Manitoulin chain of islands, divide the lake into two unequal portions, the E. part being named Georgian Bay. Length, N. to S., about 280 m.; greatest breadth, inclusive of Georgian Bay, 190 m.; average breadth 70 m.; estimated area 24,000 sq. m. It stands 578 ft. above sea-level, and has a mean depth of 900 ft. The lake receives numerous streams, the chief of which are the Francis and the Severn Rivers; and it is studded with numerous islands, the largest being Grand Manitoulin. Many fine harbours are situated on its shores. Its waters are remarkably clear and cold. Though subject to fearful storms, its navigation is not generally considered dangerous .. 22 Bd

The city is built chiefly of blue limestone, and contains numerous public buildings, including many churches, scholastic, literary, and benevolent institutions, and in the immediate vicinity there are a penitentiary and a lunatic asylum. The manufactures include iron castings, mill machinery, steam engines, leather, soap, candles, boots and shoes, brooms, pianos, &c. Brewing and shipbuilding form extensive industries. The city is the seat of the see of a R. C. bishop, and returns 1 member to the House of Commons and 1 to the provincial legislature. This place was first settled by the French under De Courcelles in 1672, and named Fort Cataraqui, and afterwards Fort Frontenac; but, falling subsequently in 1762 into British hands, it received its present name, and was incorporated as a city in 1838. It is the seat of Queen's University and Military College

- Labrador, large peninsula, on E. coast of British North America, lying between lat. 50° and 65° N., and long. 56° and 78° W., and washed by Hudson and James' Bays, Hudson Strait, Atlantic Ocean, and Gulf of St Lawrence. Length 1,100 m., breadth 470 m.; area 450,000 sq. m. P. 4,500, chiefly Esquimaux. The name Labrador now applies to the E. part of the peninsula only, between Cape Chudleigh in the N. and Cape Charles in the S., and is connected politically with Newfoundland; the W. and central portions form part of the Dominion of Canada. The interior is very imperfectly known, but the country is everywhere bleak, sterile, and desolate. Granite, gneiss, and mica slate are the prevailing rocks of the coast, and in some places these are covered by a bed of old red sandstone, with secondary limestone superimposed. At a short distance from the shore, however, this secondary formation disappears, and gives place to primary formations. The tableland of the interior is strewn with a large number of boulders sometimes three and four deep. The Watchich Mountains form the principal watershed, from which the rivers flow W., N., and E. The principal rivers of Labrador are the East Main or Stude, the Great and Little Whale, the Kenogannissee, the Koksoak, and the Meschickemau, or North-West River. There are numerous lakes, many of them formed by expansions of the rivers; the chief are Clearwater, Mistassini, and Meschickemau Lakes. The extreme rigour of the climate prevents the growth of ordinary cereals; but barley is sown and cut green for fodder, and potatoes and some other vegetables are grown for domestic purposes. Birch and poplar trees grow in some of the valleys, where the soil is of a sandy nature. Among the animals to be met with are bears, wolves, foxes, martens, and otters. There is also a peculiar breed of dogs, much resembling wolves in appearance. The chief industry of Labrador is the fisheries along its coasts, the annual value of which amounts to £1,000,000. There is also a considerable trade in furs, oil, and whalebone. The Esquimaux live chiefly near the coast, and are mild, hospitable, and

- London, city and port of entry, Ontario, cap. of Middlesex co., and at junction of the N. and S. branches of the Thames R., 121 m. W. of Toronto. It is well and regularly built, and contains many handsome public buildings, including several scholastic institutions, and a large number of churches of various denominations. The city possesses numerous iron foundries, machine-shops, mills, breweries, chemical works, oil refineries, tanneries, boot and shoe, soap and candle, carriage, and other factories. It is situated in one of the finest agricultural districts of the Dominion, and has good railway facilities, being the centre from which four different lines diverge. On account of the medicinal qualities of its white sulphur springs, it is usually visited by large numbers of invalids in search of health. It returns 1 member to the House of Commons, and 1 to the provincial legislature. P. (1832) 6,034; (1881) 19,746 .. 25 Cb

Manitoba, a prov. of the Dominion, bounded N. by Keewatin and Saskatchewan, S. by Minnesota and Dakota (U.S.), E. by Ontario, and W. by Assiniboia; lies between lat.
 49°-53° N. and long. 90°-101° W., and occupies a central position on the N. American continent, being midway between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans on the E. and W., and the Arctic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico in the N. and S. Area 73,720 sq. m. P. (1881) 65,945, (1886) 108,640, showing an increase of 64.57 per cent. during the quinquennial period, and a density of 1.47 persons to the sq. m.
 The greater portion of the province consists of perfectly level prairie, covered during the summer months with a rich vegetable growth, which affords excellent pasture ranges. Trees are found growing on the banks of the rivers, and the varieties include the elm, ash, oak, poplar, basswood, maple, &c. The soil is a deep dark mould or loam, resting on a hard and tenacious clay subsoil, and is well adapted to the growth of all kinds of cereals, especially wheat, which grows very heavy. In 1887 the average yield per acre was as follows:—wheat, 28 bushels; barley, 35 bushels; and oats, 50 bushels. In 1884 the yield of potatoes per acre was 192 bushels; turnips, 422 bushels; and carrots, 271 bushels. Garden vegetables of all kinds, and also the smaller fruits, are easily raised. The climate is one of heat in summer, and extreme cold in winter; but the air being dry and bracing, the cold is not felt so much as in a more humid atmosphere; the mean heat during the months of June, July, and August is 65° to 67°, and during December, January, and February 5° below zero, but the thermometer sinks as low as 30°, 40°, and even 50° below zero. The rainfall is confined chiefly to the months of spring, the summer and autumn usually being dry. The province is watered by numerous rivers, the chief of which are the Red, Winnipeg, Assiniboine, and Souris Rivers. The greater parts of Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba are within its area, and abundant supplies of water also be obtained by digging wells in the Manitoba, which was formerly known as the River Settlement, was formed into a province and added into the Dominion in 1870. The Government invested in a Lieutenant-Governor, assisted by an Executive Council of 5 members, and a Legislative Assembly of 35 members. The C.P. Ry. traverses the province, and along its route are numerous towns and rising villages. Chief towns—Winnipeg, the capital, Portage la Prairie, and Brandon. Manitoba is well provided with schools, educational institutions, and churches of various denominations

morency are situated 8 m. from Quebec, and form a beautiful cascade with a sheer descent of over 250 ft., the river at the top being about 100 feet wide ..

Montreal, a city and port of entry, Quebec, the commercial metropolis of the Dominion, stands on the SE. side of an island of the same name at the junction of the Ottawa River with the St Lawrence, and at the head of ocean navigation. It is 145 m. by water and 170 m. by rail SW. of Quebec, 620 m. from the sea, and 420 m. N. of New York. Lat. 45° 31' N., long. 73° 34' W. The city is built upon a series of gently sloping terraces, running inland from the St Lawrence for a distance of 2 miles, and culminating in the beautiful elevation called Mount Royal, nearly 700 ft. above the level of the river, which is here about 2 m. broad. Most of the buildings are built of limestone, obtained from quarries in the neighbourhood, and are roofed with tin or sheet-iron, which, along with its numerous spires and towers, gives the city an imposing appearance when seen from a distance. Some of the streets in the lower part of the town are narrow, ill-paved, and dingy in appearance; but in the upper part they are broad and spacious, and contain many well-built edifices. The principal public buildings are the Custom House, Post Office, City Hall, Convent of Notre Dame, Seminary of St Sulpice, the Hôtel Dieu, Nelson's Monument, the Quebec Barracks, General Hospital, Grey Nunnery, Bonsecours Market, Academy of Music, Queen's Hall, Theatre Royal, Victoria Skating Rink, Crystal Palace, &c. The educational interests of the city are represented by M'Gill University, Montreal College, St Mary's College, besides numerous other academies and schools. Montreal contains numerous churches, many of them being very handsome structures; among them are Christ Church Cathedral, the Church of the Gesu, Notre Dame Church, St Peter's, Trinity, St George, St Andrew, and St Paul Churches, &c. The harbour, which is formed towards the river, is spacious and secure; and the wharves, with the revetment wall, have not their equal on the American continent. The industries of Montreal include iron-founding, distilling, brewing, sugar-refining, and the manufactures embrace hardware and woodenware, glass, paints, drugs, carriages, edge tools, steam engines, locomotives, boilers, machinery, paper, types, woollen, cotton, and leather goods, &c. The transit trade of Montreal is also very large. At Point St Charles, one of the western suburbs, are situated the head offices and works of the Grand Trunk Railway, which connects the Canadian and United States lines. Here the Victoria Bridge, 9,184 ft. in length, a massive but graceful structure, spans the St Lawrence; it was opened in 1859, and cost nearly 7,000,000 dols. Montreal was first visited, and received its present name from Jacques Cartier, in 1535; and was settled by Europeans in 1642. It came into the hands of the British in 1760. The city returns 3 members to the House of Commons, and 3 to the Provincial Legislature. P. (1871) 107,225: (1881) 140,747: (1888) 200,000.

Greatest length N. to S., 210 m.; breadth, 180 m.; area, 27,124 sq. m., being about that of Scotland, exclusive of the islands, and greater than that of Holland and Belgium combined. P. (1871) 285,594, (1881) 321,233. Cap. Fredericton. The surface of the province, which is intersected by numerous navigable rivers, is generally very undulating, although it is nowhere (except in the N.) of a strictly mountainous character. The hills range from 300 ft. in the W. to 500 and 800 ft. in the N., and are clad with lofty forest trees almost to their summits, and surrounded by fertile valleys and table lands. The principal rivers are the St John, 450 m. long, and flowing for a distance of 225 m. through the province; the Miramichi, 225 m. long, and navigable for large vessels 25 m. from its mouth, and for 20 m. farther for schooners; the Restigouche, 200 m. long; the Richibucto; the Petitcodiac, &c. The coast is indented by numerous bays, the chief of which are the Baie des Chaleurs in the NE.; Miramichi, Shediac, and Baie Verte in the E.; Chignecto and Passamaquoddy Bays in the S. There are numerous lakes, mostly of small extent; the chief of them are Grand Lake, which is 30 m. long and from 2 to 7 m. broad; and Washedemoak Lake, about 20 m. long and 2 m. broad. The soil is one of extreme fertility, and produces all the cereals and fruits grown in Britain, with perhaps the exception of peaches. Much of the surface is densely wooded, the varieties of trees including pine, spruce, cedar, &c., thus affording abundance of excellent material for shipbuilding, which forms one of the staple industries of the province. Its harbours are open all the year round, and its interminable network of navigable rivers by which the country can everywhere be penetrated, affords excellent means for transporting the products of the interior to the

It is separated on the NW. from Quebec by the Gulf of St Lawrence, and on the N. the Strait of Belleisle divides it from Labrador; on its E. side it is washed by the Atlantic Ocean. Length, about 419 m., by about 300 m. greatest width; area, 40,200 sq. m. P. (1884) 193,121. Cap. St John's, 1,933 m. from Liverpool. It is very irregular in form, and is everywhere indented with deep bays and inlets, the most important being Hare, White, Notre Dame, Bonavista, Trinity, and Conception Bays, and Bay of Exploits on the E. coast; St Mary's, Fortune, and Placentia Bays on the S. coast; and St George's Bay and Bay of Islands on the W. coast. The principal capes are, Bauld, on the N.; Race, on the SE.; and Ray, on the SW. The country abounds in lakes and ponds, whence issue numerous rivers; the main streams are the Humber, Exploits, and Gander rivers. The Atlantic cables terminate at Heart's Content, a small cove in Trinity Bay. The chief lakes are Deer Pond, Grand Pond, Gander Pond, and Red Indian Pond. The coast line is bold and rocky, and the surface for the most part flat in the E. and mountainous in the W.; the interior has never been thoroughly explored. The prevailing geological formation is granite, with porphyry, quartz, gneiss, mica, and clayslate in some parts, with secondary and carboniferous formations. Among the minerals found are silver, copper, lead, iron, plumbago, manganese, gypsum, limestone, coal, marble, &c. The trees principally grown in Newfoundland are spruce, birch, larch, willow, ash, and fir. Clover and grasses grow in abundance. There are the deer, the wolf, the bear, the beaver, the marten, and wild cat among the wild animals to be found; and the country is celebrated for its peculiar breed of dogs. The coasts abound in whales, seals, and porpoises; and its Grand Banks swarm with cod and many other kinds of fish. Winter generally lasts from December till April, and the summer is warm and of short duration. The mean annual temperature is 40°, the coldest month being February with a temperature of 22°, and the hottest month July with a temperature of 60°. Dense fogs, caused by the meeting of the cold ice-current from the N. with the warm Gulf Stream from the S., settle on the Banks between the month of May and the beginning of June. The government of the colony is vested in a Governor, an Executive Council of 6 members, a Legislative Council of 13 members, and a Legislative Assembly of 33 representatives. N. has not yet joined the Dominion, and is treated as a separate colony. The inhabitants are engaged chiefly in the fisheries or agriculture, but ship-building is also carried on to a considerable extent. The total value of imports in 1887 was £1,079,481; and of exports £1,035,346. The principal imports are articles of food and clothing; and the chief exports are dried cod, cod-oil, seals, sealskins, &c. The principal means of communication are steamers and open sail-boats, there being no railways in the colony. N. is supposed to have been visited by the Northmen as early as the year 1000, but it was re-discovered and taken possession of by Sir John Cabot, in June 1497. It consisted originally of numerous English and French settlements, but in 1713 it was declared by the Treaty of Utrecht to belong wholly to Britain. Map 36

comprise the whole of the vast region lying NW. of the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba, and stretching from Alaska and the Rocky Mountains on the W. to Hudson Bay on the E., and from the Arctic Ocean in the N. to the United States in the S. This immense tract is bounded S. by the 49th parallel of N. latitude, which divides it from the United States; W. by the Rocky Mountains which separate it from British Columbia; NW. by the territory of Alaska (belonging to U.S.); and N. by the Arctic Ocean. Four provisional districts have been formed out of this territory, viz., Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Athabasca. Computed area (inclusive of the provisional districts, and of the islands in the Arctic Ocean and Hudson Bay) 2,553,337 sq. m. P. (1881) 56,446. The country in general is one vast rolling prairie, containing large tracts of fertile land suitable for agricultural and grazing purposes. The northern portions are thickly wooded, and the soil is a rich, black, vegetable mould, varying in depth from 18 inches to many feet. It contains rich mineral deposits, coal, iron, and gold having been found, the former in abundance. Everywhere it is watered by numerous lakes and rivers. Among its lakes are the Great Bear, Great Slave, Athabasca, Winnipeg, Rein Deer, Clinton Golden, Wollaston, Doobaunt, North Lined, Baker, Big or Indian, Nelson, &c., Lakes. The rivers include the Mackenzie (2,500 m. long, and draining an area of 443,000 square miles), the Coppermine, and the Great Fish Rivers, all of which flow to the Arctic Ocean; the Assiniboine, Saskatchewan (1,500 m. long), and Red Rivers, falling into Lake Winnipeg; the Nelson and Churchill Rivers, discharging into Hudson Bay, besides numerous other smaller streams. Many of these rivers are navigable, and will afford excellent waterways for transporting the productions of the interior to suitable ports of shipment. Assiniboia and Alberta are traversed by the C.P. Ry., and railways have been projected throughout other parts of the territory. The population is sparse, but it is rapidly increasing. Herds of buffaloes and elks are found roaming over the plains; and since the Hudson Bay Company was chartered by

- Nova Scotia, the most easterly province of the Dominion of Canada, consists of a long peninsula (connected by an isthmus 16 m. wide with the province of New Brunswick) and of Cape Breton Island, separated from the mainland by the Gut of Canso. It is washed on the SE. by the Atlantic; on the NW. by the Bay of Fundy; and on the N. by the Gulf of St Lawrence and Northumberland Strait, the latter separating it from Prince Edward Island. Lat. 43° 25' to 47° N., long. 59° 40' to 66° 25' W. Length 300 m.; breadth 80 to 100 m.; area 21,751 sq. m. P. (1881) 440,572. Cap. Halifax. The surface of the province is diversified by hills and broad valleys running from E. to W. throughout its length. The Cobequid Mountains in the N. attain to 1,200 ft. in height. The coasts are indented by numerous bays and commodious harbours, there being no fewer than 26 ports for large vessels on the SE. coast alone. The principal lakes are Rossignol, 20 m. long; Ship Harbour, 15 m. long; Grand, and College Lakes. None of the rivers of the province are of great size, but most of them are navigable for coasting vessels for distances varying from 2 to 20 miles. Chief among them are the Shubenacadie, the Avon, and the Annapolis, falling into the Bay of Fundy; and the St Mary's, Musquodoboit, La Have, and Liverpool, which drain to the Atlantic. Minas Basin terminating in Cobequid Bay, and running 60 m. inland, forms the E. arm of the Bay of Fundy. The more important bays are St George's and Chedabucto on the E.; St Mary's and Townsend on the W.; and St Margaret's and Mahone Bays on the SE. coast. The geological

Ontario (formerly Upper Canada , or Canada West), the most populous and wealthy province of the Dominion, is bounded on the SE., W., and SW. by the St Lawrence, and the great lakes Ontario, Huron, Erie, and Superior; on the SW. by Minnesota (U.S.); on the E. by the River Ottawa, which separates it from Quebec province; on the N. by the Albany River and James' Bay; and on the W. by Manitoba. Area, within the census limits, 101,733 sq. m. Area of its frontier waters, 27,094 sq. m. P. (1881) 1,923,228; June 1886 (estimated), 2,096,063. Capital, Toronto. The other leading towns are Ottawa, the administrative capital of the Dominion, Kingston, Hamilton, and London. The surface is gently undulating, but is nowhere of a strictly mountainous character, and is agreeably diversified by lakes and rivers. A main watershed divides the waters of the St Lawrence from those of the Ottawa, and a smaller one separates the rivers draining to Lakes Simcoe and Huron and the Georgian Bay from those flowing into Lakes Erie and Ontario. The soil varies in different localities, but by far the greater portion of it is extremely fertile, and is capable of raising immense crops of wheat and other cereals. A large portion of the land is under crops and pasture, and a considerable area is devoted to orchards and gardens, fruit growing being largely engaged in. Apples form one of the staple articles of export, and the quantity exported in the green state during 1886 amounted to £40,000 in value. The total area in 1886 under crops was 7,403,281 acres; pasture, 3,026,321 acres; orchards and gardens, 186,616 acres. Dairy farming is largely carried on, and in 1886 there were 770 cheese factories and 47 creameries in operation. In addition to having the middle course of the St Lawrence on the N. the Ottawa with its tributaries on the NE., the province contains numerous smaller streams, the principal of which are the Niagara, falling into Lake Ontario; the Trent and Moira, falling into the Bay of Quinté; the Grand, flowing SE. to Lake Erie; the French, Maganetawan, Severn, and Nottawasaga, discharging into the Georgian Bay; the Thames, running SW. to Lake St Clair; and the Saugeen, Maitland, and Aux Sables, debouching in Lake Huron. Besides the great lakes whose waters wash its S., SE., and W. shores, the province contains the smaller lakes of Simcoe, Nipigon, Nipissing, &c. Ontario is intersected by several canals, and the inland navigation is very extensive and complete. There are large tracts of wooded lands in the N., and the trade in timber is of great value, but the forests are gradually yielding before the advance of agriculture and dairy farming; the trees grown include pine, oak, elm, black walnut, sugar maple, &c. The climate is extremely salubrious, and is agreeably tempered by the proximity of great lakes. It is hotter in summer and colder in winter than in Britain, but the air is always dry and bracing. The mean annual temperature at Toronto during 1882 was 45.4°; the mean temperature during January, the coldest month, was 23.1°, as against 67.3° during August, the hottest month; the mean barometrical reading, 30.05 inches; the total rainfall, 20.59 inches; and the total snowfall, 42.5 inches. Ontario possesses mineral wealth of great variety and richness. Among minerals to be met with are magnetic iron ore, red hematite, rich copper ore, galena, silver, gold, iron pyrites, phosphate of lime, gypsum, marl, salt (obtainable from springs), ochre, plumbago, mica, steatite, brick-clays, magnesian limestone, sandstone, &c. Coal is not found in workable quantities. The manufactures include agricultural implements, wagons, carriages, locomotives, railway plant, iron and hardware, woodenware, paper, soap, leather, furniture, cotton and woollen stuffs, &c. Ontario possesses an admirable system of public education, which is free to the children of rich and poor alike, and wholly unsectarian in character. Roman Catholics may establish separate schools, and in such cases will be exempted from supporting public schools, and receive a separate grant from Government. Out of a population, in 1881, of 1,523,228, an analysis shows that 591,503 were Methodists; 417,749 Presbyterians; 366,539 Church of England; 320,839 Roman Catholics; and 106,680 Baptists. Upper Canada was first formed into a separate province in 1791, previous to which it formed part of Quebec. After the insurrectionary movements of 1837, it became, in 1840, again merged in the province of Quebec. It was, however, finally constituted a distinct province in 1867, under the name of Ontario. The administration of the province is vested in a Lieutenant Governor, an Executive Council of 6 members, and a Legislative Assembly of 90 members, representing 90 electoral districts into which the province is divided. See Statistics Map 22

Ontario, a central co. of Ontario, bounded S. by Lake Ontario. Area 859 sq. m. P. (1881) 61,714. Chief town, Whitby. The co. is watered by numerous streams flowing into Lakes Ontario and Simcoe 24 Db

Ontario, Lake, the smallest and most E. of the 6 great lakes of the St Lawrence Basin, separates New York State on the SE. from Ontario on the N. Length 180 m.; greatest breadth 65 m.; average breadth 40 m.; area 7,300 sq. m.; mean depth 500 ft.; alt. 232 ft. above sea-level. It is connected with Lake Erie by the Welland Canal, and discharges at its NE. extremity through the Lake of the Thousand Isles into the R. St Lawrence. It receives the Genessee, Oswego, and Trent Rivers, besides many smaller streams. Being of such great depth, it is never entirely frozen over, even in the coldest winter. The lake is everywhere navigable for the largest vessels

 The river is here spanned by six bridges. The streets, which cross each other at right angles, are spacious, well drained, and lighted with gas. Many elegant buildings adorn the town, and among those of a public character are the Town Hall, County Buildings, Collegiate Institute, Mechanics' Institute, and the Law Library and Club, besides schools and numerous churches of all denominations. P. is surrounded by a rich agricultural country, and having ample railway facilities, it is the distributing point for large quantities of wheat, barley, flour, and country produce. There is also an extensive export trade in lumber. The town contains several saw,

- Prince Albert, settlement, in Saskatchewan, on N. Saskatchewan River
- Prince Edward Island, the smallest province of the Dominion, lies in the Gulf of St Lawrence, between lat. 46° and 47° N., and long. 62° and 64° 30' W. It is separated from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick by the Strait of Northumberland, and is deeply indented by large bays and inlets. Length 150 m., by 4 to 34 m. greatest breadth. Area 2,133 sq. m. P. (1881) 108,891; 1886 (estimated) 117,301. Cap. Charlottetown. The surface is gently undulating, but nowhere exceeds 500 feet in elevation. A considerable area is forest-clad. The soil for the most part consists of a rich layer of vegetable matter, above a bright loam resting upon a stiff clay and sandstone, and is eminently favourable for the growth of grasses, wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, turnips, &c. In the bays and rivers an excellent manure is obtainable, consisting of mussel mud (formed by decayed oyster, clam, and mussel shells), which possesses great fertilising qualities. The inhabitants are chiefly engaged in agriculture and the breeding of horses and sheep, but considerable attention is also paid to the fisheries, the total value of which for 1887 was 1,037,426 dols. No minerals of any consequence are found in the province. The industries of the island have rapidly developed of late, and there are now several butter, cheese, starch, and soap factories; tanneries; grist, saw, and woollen mills; factories for canning and preserving meat and fish, carriage factories, &c. The province, which is well watered, is divided into three counties, viz., Kings, Queens, and Prince; and the chief towns, besides Charlottetown the capital, are Georgetown, Summerside, Alberton, and

- Souris. The climate is extremely healthy, but is colder in winter and warmer in summer than in Britain. Prince Edward Island was formerly known as St John's Island, and was amongst Cabot's early discoveries. It belonged originally to the French, but was taken by the British in 1755, restored to France by the Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, but finally ceded to Great Britain in 1758. It received its present name in 1799, and was admitted into the Dominion in 1873. The Government is vested in a Lieutenant-Governor, aided by an Executive Council, a Legislative Council of 13 members, and a Legislative Assembly of 30 members

- Quebec, city, river port, and capital of Quebec province, and the third city in point of population in the Dominion, is situated on a promontory, culminating in Cape Diamond, 333 ft. above the level of the river, on the left bank of the St Lawrence, at the junction of the St Charles, 400 m. from the sea, and 180 m. NE. of Montreal. Lat. 46° 49' 6" N., long. 71° 13' 45" W. P. (1881) 62,446. The city is divided into Upper and Lower Towns, the former occupying the highest points of the promontory, and being strongly fortified, and the latter lying around its base and along the banks of both rivers. To the SW. of the Upper town lie the Plains of Abraham, where a column 40 ft. high has been erected on the spot where Wolfe fell in 1759. In one of the squares of the town there is also a monument erected to the memory of the English and French generals, Wolfe and Montcalm. The streets are generally irregular and narrow, and some of them are very steep. Most of the houses are built of stone or brick, and are topped by quaint-looking roofs, covered with tinned iron or shingle. The Lower Town being the commercial quarter, numerous warehouses and wharves stretch along the banks of both rivers, and there being ample depth of water, vessels of the largest size can be floated alongside the wharves. The city receives a copious supply of water from Lake St Charles, 9 m. distant, and situated several hundred feet above the highest level of the town. Quebec contains numerous churches of various denominations, and educational institutions of a high order. Among the public buildings are the provincial Houses of Parliament, the R.C. Cathedral, the Episcopal, Presbyterian, and other churches, Laval University, the Grand Seminary, the Minor Seminary, Ursuline Convent, Morrin College, Laval Normal and Model Schools, Quebec High School, Advocates' Library, Merchants' Exchange, Museum of the Literary and Historical Society, the Marine Hospital, the Hôtel-Dieu, the General Hospital, the Lunatic Asylum, &c., &c. The manufactures include iron castings, machinery, leather, boots and shoes, paper, tobacco, &c. There is also a very extensive export trade in lumber. The city returns 3 members to the House of Commons, and 3 to the Provincial Legislature. Quebec was founded by Champlain in 1608. It fell into the hands of the English in 1629, but was restored to the French in 1632. Subsequently it was retaken by General Wolfe in 1759, and has since remained in British possession.

Quebec (formerly Lower Canada, or Canada East), the oldest province of the Dominion, is bounded N. by Labrador, W. by Ontario, SW. by the River Ottawa, S. by New York, New England States, and New Brunswick, and E. by the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Length, from the Ottawa to Strait of Belleisle, about 1,000 m., or to Cape Gaspé, 700 m.; breadth about 300 m. Area of census districts 188,688 sq. m., or including the water areas 193,355 sq. m. P. (1881) 1,359,027, of whom 86.14 per cent. are Roman Catholics, and 79.11 per cent. of French origin. The surface of the province is characterised by great rivers and lakes, with vast forest lands, diversified in the settled parts by well-cultivated fields and rich pastures. The principal mountain ranges are the Nôtre Dame chain, running parallel with the St. Lawrence on its S. side and the Laurentide range on the N. side, with an average elevation of 1,600 ft., and stretching from Labrador to Lake Superior. Besides the St. Lawrence, which traverses the entire length of the province, and its great affluent the Ottawa, which divides the province from Ontario, there are numerous other rivers and smaller streams. Chief among them are the Richelieu, rising in Lake Champlain, and flowing 80 m. to the S. side of the St. Lawrence, thus all but connecting that river with the Hudson; the St. Francis, 100 m. long; and the Chaudière, 102 m. long, falling into the St. Lawrence on the right; and the St. Maurice, 400 m. long; the Saguenay, 100 m. long; and the Batiscan, 50 m. long, tributaries on the left side. The soil in general is extremely rich, and susceptible of the highest cultivation. Among the agricultural products and fruits grown are wheat, barley, rye, peas and beans, buckwheat, Indian corn, oats, potatoes, turnips, grass and clover seed, hay, hemp, flax, tobacco, tomatoes, grapes, &c. The rich pastures of the hill sides, and the abundant streams of pure water, make the province suitable for dairy farming, and excellent cheese and butter are made. Quebec is also rich in minerals. In the Beauce district and elsewhere, gold is found, and copper abounds in the eastern townships, while iron has been worked in the St Maurice district. Among the other minerals are lead, silver, platinum, zinc, phosphate of lime, &c. The lumber trade still forms the most important industry of the province. The exports of timber in 1886 amounted to 9,603,441 dols., and the Government have found it necessary to take steps for the preservation, and replanting of forests, and an annual "arbor day" is now devoted to this work. The varieties of timber include white and red pine, ash, birch, beech, elm, hickory, black walnut, cherry, maple, spruce, fir, &c. The climate is similar to that of Ontario, but is colder in winter and warmer in summer. Observations taken at Montreal during 1882 showed that the mean temperature during January, the coldest month, was 12.2°, against 68.3° during September, the hottest month. The mean temperature for the whole year was 41.58°; the mean barometrical reading 30.01 inches, the total rainfall, 27 inches; and the total snowfall, 111.02 inches. The school system of Quebec is under the Superintendent of Public Instruction, aided by a Council, divided into two committees for the government of Roman Catholic and Protestant schools respectively. Primary education is supported partly by a government grant, and partly by taxation and a small monthly contribution from heads of families for each child capable of attending school. Of the three universities two are Protestant, viz., M'Gill College and Bishop's College, and one R. Catholic, viz., Laval University. There are three normal schools, maintained by the state, for the training of teachers; 300 secondary and model schools, with about 40,000 pupils; and 4,000 primary schools, with about 200,000 pupils. There are numerous churches throughout the province, the prevailing religion of which is Roman Catholic. Judicial procedure and the duties of coroners are generally analogous to those in force in England. Besides Quebec, the capital, the other chief places are Montreal, Levis, Sherbrooke, Hull, St Henri, St Jean Baptiste, Sorel, and St Hyacinthe. The manufactures include cloth, linen, leather, furniture, flax, hardware, paper, chemicals, soap, boots and shoes, agricultural implements, steam engines, ships, &c. Exports pot and pearl ashes, flour, wheat, oats, barley, butter, cheese, copper, wool, and lumber. Total imports (1887), 50,153,673 dols.; exports, 39,933,146 dols. Trade is facilitated by an admirable system of railways and canals. The administration is vested in a Lieutenant-Governor, assisted by a Legislative Council of 24 members appointed for life, and a Legislative Assembly of 65 members elected every five years. - European settlement of Quebec was formed by Cartier in 1541, and the country remained in the possession of the French up to the year 1759, when it came into British hands. It formerly included the present province of Ontario, and in 1792 was divided into Upper and Lower Canada, but was reunited again in 1840. The United Provinces were finally separated in 1867, and formed into the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. See Statistics .. Map 14

- cotton and woollen goods, &c. The registered shipping of the port is very large, and St John is the centre of the New Brunswick railway system. The city returns three members to the House of Commons (one for the city, and two for the city and county), and six to the Provincial Legislature (two for the city, and four for the city and county). It was originally settled by the French, but it subsequently came into the hands of the British, and was created a town by royal charter in 1785 12 Dc
- St John, the largest river of New Brunswick, rises in the height of land between Maine (U.S.) and Canada, and flows NE. then SE. to the Bay of Fundy at St John city. Total course about 450 m., of which about 225 m. are in New Brunswick. Its navigation is interrupted by falls, but vessels of 120 tons can ascend as far as Fredericton, 80 m. from the mouth of the river, and small steamers to Woodstock, 75 m. farther up. It receives numerous tributary streams, among which are the Oromocto; the Aroostook, 120 m. long; the Alagash; the Kennebecasis, 20 m. long; the Washademoak, 70 m. long; the Salmon, 70 m. long; the Nashwaak, 60 m. long; the Tobique, 62 m. long; the Madawaska, 30 m. long; the St Francis, &c. A large portion of the drainage area is clothed with forests of pine and other timber, and large quantities are floated down the river. - St Lawrence, one of the largest rivers of N. America, issues from the E. end of Lake Ontario, and forms the outlet of the great lakes of Canada and the United States. Its remotest sources are the W. tributaries of Lake Superior, and in different parts of its course it has received different names. Above Lake Superior it is called the St Louis; between Lakes Superior and Huron, the St Mary; between Lakes Huron and St Clair, the St Clair; between Lakes St Clair and Erie, the Detroit; between Lakes Erie and Ontario, the Niagara; and for the remainder of its course, the St Lawrence. Length, from Lake Ontario to Gulf of St Lawrence, 750 m.; total length, including lakes, 2,150 m.; area of basin, 297,600 sq. m. It receives numerous affluents, the chief of which are the Ottawa, 800 m. long; the St Maurice, 400 m. long; the Saguenay, 100 m. long; and the Batiscan, 50 m. long. The river is navigable for the largest class of vessels as far as Quebec, and for ships of 4,000 tons burthen, as far as Montreal. Above this point to Lake Ontario there are several rapids which impede navigation, but these are overcome by a series of canals, on the construction of which many millions of dollars have been expended. The St Lawrence is studded with a number of islands, and forms many lake-expansions, such as the Lakes of the Thousand Isles, St Francis, St Peter, &c. During winter it is frozen over, and the navigation from the sea is then completely closed.

Superior Lake, the largest and most westerly of the great chain of lakes of the St Lawrence basin, and the largest body of fresh water on the surface of the globe, lies between lat. 46° 26' and 49° 1' N., and between long. 84° 30' and 92° 20' W.; and is bounded on the NE. by Ontario, NW. by Minnesota, and S. by Wisconsin and part of Michigan (U.S.). Length, 420 m.; breadth, 160 m.; circumference, 1,500 m.; area, 32,000 sq. m.; height above sea-level, 630 ft.; mean depth, 900 ft. On the Canadian side the shore is bold and rocky; but the S. shore is generally low and sandy, and occasionally interrupted by ridges of limestone, which at one place attain to an elevation of 300 ft. The boundary line between Canada and the United States runs through the centre of the lake from its outlet at Sault Ste. Marie to Pigeon R. in the SSW., but is carried round Isle Royale in the NW., which belongs to the United States. The lake is subject to very violent storms, which have proved destructive to life and property. It receives the drainage of innumerable streams, about 30 of which are of con-

- Toronto, the second city of the Dominion and cap. of the province of Ontario, stands on a bay on the NW. shore of Lake Ontario, in co. York, 333 m. by rail WSW. of Montreal, and 63 m. W. of Port Hope. Lat. 43° 49' 4" N., long. 79° 21' 5" W. P. (1881) 86,415, (1888) 164,000, including Parkdale 170,000. The site on which the town is built slopes gently upward from the bay. The streets are spacious, well laid out, and cross each other at right angles. The prevailing building material is a light-coloured brick, sometimes relieved by cut stone dressings, and many of the buildings are of beautiful architectural design. Toronto is the seat of a university. The buildings, which are Norman in style, are situated in the Queen's Park, in the N. part of the city, and were erected during the years 1854-57, at a cost of nearly half a million dollars. They have a main frontage of about 300 feet, and the central tower is 120 feet high. Other leading educational establishments are Trinity College for Episcopalians, Knox College for Presbyterians, the MacMaster Hall, the School of Practical Science, Upper Canada College, Normal School, Museum, &c., the Dental Colleges, School of Pharmacy, and a number of other schools and educational establishments. There is a large number of churches, representing every denomination; among the more prominently striking from an architectural point of view are St James' Episcopal Cathedral, St Michael's R.C. Cathedral, the Metropolitan Wesleyan Church, St James' Presbyterian Church, St Andrew's Presbyterian, and Jarvis Street Baptist. Among other notable buildings and places of interest are Government House, Parliament House, the Custom House, Post Office, Central Prison, Osgoode Hall (the seat of the law courts), Lunatic Asylum, Exhibition Grounds and Crystal Palace, Boys' Home, Girls' Home, Orphans' Home, Home for Incurables, House of Providence, St Lawrence Hall and Market, City Hall, Horticultural Gardens, Zoological Gardens, Queen's Park, and the Volunteers' Monument. There are also an opera house, two theatres, a skating rink, and several music halls. The chief literary and scientific institutions are the Mechanics' Institute and Library, the Canadian Institute, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Observatory, &c. Toronto has extensive manufacturing interests, and contains several iron foundries, engineering establishments, railway car building shops, carriage factories, tanneries, soap works, boot and shoe factories, sewing machine shops, breweries, a large distillery, &c. It has a large export trade in lumber, wheat, flour, cattle, while its fine harbour and the numerous lines of railway which pass through the city afford unequalled facilities for an extensive traffic. The site of the city (which was originally called York) was selected by Governor Simcoe in 1794, and in 1812 the population did not amount to more than 1,000. Toronto was incorporated in 1834, when it received its present name, which some suppose to be derived from the Mohawk Dr-on-do, "trees on the island," and others from an Indian word meaning "place of meeting"

- S. of Lake Winnipeg. The city has sprung up since the year 1870, prior to which time it was only a trading station of the Hudson Bay Company. It was incorporated in 1873. P. (1871) 241, (1881) 7,985, (1887) 30,000. Winnipeg is the seat of the Provincial Government and of the Superior Courts. Among its educational establishments are the University of Manitoba, St John's College, Manitoba College, St Boniface College, &c. It also contains numerous churches, schools, and other educational establishments. Being the centre of a fine fertile district, where large quantities of wheat are grown, there is a large carrying trade, for which great facilities are afforded by the railway lines, and by the navigable rivers with their well-equipped steamers. The city is also gradually rising in manufacturing importance. The rivers are spanned by several substantial bridges, and the city is rapidly extending 32 Dc
